

SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR SENSING DATA IN A WELL DURING FRACTURING*Abstract

A system and method for sensing and recovering data in a well, according to which one or more sensors are located in an area of the well for sensing data associated with the well and transmitting corresponding signals. A tool is lowered into the area and a receiver mounted on the tool is adapted to receive the signals and transmit the signals to the ground surface.